HON. THOMAS PEYTON HILL. Stanford's Oldest and Ablest Lawyer. An Interesting Sketch of His Life.

Sastaining with upusual mental and physileal vigor the weight of three score and ten years, the familiar tigure of Hon. T. P. Hill continues to pass in and out before this community. Measured by the urbdtrary dispreserved bealth, by a stendy gult, an erect figure, an equable temper, a flow of homer, studious haldts, a sound judgment and linent speech, he is yet in the impay condition described by one of the saws of his profession, "MENS SANA IN SANG COMPORE." That he may secontinue for years to come is the ardent wish of those to whom his friendship has been a Ideasing.

Mr. IIII is a native of Lincoln county, and comes of an ancestry distinguished for talent, patriotism and lofty independence of He was regarded as unong the most gifted and accomplished young lawyers of Kentucky. Unfortunately for his own fame and fortune, and nohapply for his young wife and only child, he died at the age of ? eyears. leaving the widow and infant son penalless and wholly dependent on the cloudty of othvrs. Drphaned so early in life, without a dollar coming by inheritance and without legal claim upon a linman being who had a dellar to give him, young Hill's boyhood was alds which even a competence can farnish. Plainly stated, it was that life of wearing. grinding hardship, which comes only of extreme poverty. But, as the people of Kentucky understand better than any other. "Idood will tell." It told in his case. Often pressed for the simple necessities of life. he stringgled in the very teeth of indversity for an education, succeeding in acquiring to a fair degree such as the schools in the interior of the State at that time offered to young men. Stirred by an ambition to become a lawyer, at the age of 15 he applied to the Hon. John Kineald at Walnut Flat for permission to recite filackstone and Kent to him. Kincahi was a great man, austere and somewhat unsympathetic. He eyed distrusttully the verdant youth who stood before him chail chiefly in brogan stoes and homespun trousers. His farm, he said, had been overrun by young men whose fathers had sent them to him for legal instruction. The buys had brought their guns and dags. They had worried his sheep and cattle. left open his gates and thrown down lds fences. "Hut" taking a second and prolonged lock at 1111. "You seem to be a different breed. Are these the best cluthes you have?" "They are all I have." answered the young fellow, naturally ashumed of his mean utilize, abashed by Kincald's ninjestle presence, but sustained by a proud consciousness that be was superior to his clothing and the station to which poverty laid assigned Idin

In the course of a long and busy life he had achieved fame, had acquired property, and finally had retired to his country seat to enjoy the fruits of his genius and industry. His memory reverted to the ungraphous dispensations of his own boyhood, and seeing in the callow youth before him the germ of noblilty, which poverty could not disguise, he consented to take another pupil By the time he was 21, young Hill was 11consed to practice law and was, beside, Ilcensed to marry. He was yet poor, but hopeful, bnoyant, arilent, confident. The girl to whom he was engaged was a little thuid about embarking on the matrimonial sea with a steersman who had neither experience nor supplies for the voyage. But with a faith in his own powers which has been a guiding star of his life, he pointed to the vast domain awned by his ancestry and said, "All this will I own before I die. I will be the Joseph of my family. My bones shall lie in this sell and my children shall inherit it." It may be of that domain and much beside. DEMOCRATS seem destined to split up almost as badly on the tarily as on the money question. Five Southern Senators, both of those from South Carolina and Georgia and McEnery, of Louisiana, voted with the republicans to place a duty of 20 per cent on raw cotton ad valorem, and it passed the Senate 42 to 19. These fellows evidently agree with Gen. Hancock that the tariff is a local issue, in which every man gets all he can for himself and constituents regardless of the rights of others or whether it is petit or grand larceny.

A REPUBLICAN has written a red hot letter to President McKinley objecting very strenuously to Deboe and Roberts being permitted to dish out all the pie, without consulting Gov. LANCASTER.

Dr. Walter S. Beazley Is the father of a fine boy, born on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hughes, of Lawenceburg, visited relatives here.

Miss Lula Batson attended the comnencement exercises at Lexington this week, and lutended to return in time to play the wedding march at the Owsley-Cook wedding at the Christian church on Thursday night.

A telegram announces that Mr. S. M. Moss, a former resident of this county, is dying at Kingdisher, Oklahoma Territory. He has prominent and wealthy relatives here.

H. C. Hamilton now declines to with draw from the race for pulice judge. Judge Ephraim Brown, a member of and such laws will bring on more the city council, who has served as po- talk. lice judge, is also mentioned as a candidate. Either of them would fill the office acceptably.

A rule has been adopted by the young ladies, in a section of this county, not to receive any company on Sunday, as they believe that it is a breach of the command to keep the Sabbath holy. They are right and should adhere strictly to the rule.

Mr. William Wood and Miss Jennie Barlow were married at the residence of the bride's father, James Barlow, a prominent distliler and farmer, the 9th. On the same day Mlss Jennie Ray and Mr. Houston Ballard were married. There were four weedings that day: Miss Allce Fox Young and Mr. Clarence Witwer, and Miss Mattle Walker and Mr. George Robinson having marrled, as stated in my last, and left for a 5 30 bridal tour through the South.

Chairman George T. Farrls has ls sued a call for the democratic committee to convene here on Monday, 28th, county court day, to consult on questlons of Importance. Knowing the members of the committee, I feel assured that their deliberations will always have in view the best interests of the party and that they will not be lufluenced by personal considerations in arriving at a conclusion on any questlon.

appreciated About 7 o'elock Wednesday evening way: horrlble cries and hideous yells were heard far up on Richmond Avenue. As an excited crowd approached the scene it was ascertained that Irvine Miller, a respectable colored man, had come home from his work and found the lifeless body of his wife in the cistern, which is about i5 deep and contains 61 feet of water. Deceased was 55 years old and a favorite with her people. She had been alone all the afternoon and it ls not known how long the body had been in the cistern, though It Is belleved she had fallen in some time before her husband's arrival. There was no think it is worth it?" pump in the cistern and the water was drawn by a bucket being Inserted thro' a small opening. The main top was removed when the discovery was made. It is believed that she went to get a you. Quite a pet with you, wasn't he?" bucket of water and being feeble, feli into the elstern. Coroner Greenleaf will hold an inquest to-day (Thursday.) They were thrifty and owned a little

Since the passage of the anti-mob law, the provisions of which enable the the county treasury, taxpayers have become alarmed at the enormous sum winch would be expended under such a system. Some are on duty now and 60 more have been called for. It has been estimated that the full number of guards, at each gate in the county, would cost $75,000 a year, or 2½ tlmes more than the roads would cost. Lawabiding citizens do not wish to surrender to mobs, but there is no way to reach them, and something must be done or the county will become bankrupt. In view of these facts, Judge Burnside called the fiscal court, a nun:ber of taxpavers and stockholders of the turnpikes to meet here on Wednesday to devise some means to remove the burden. The meeting was well attended, Capt. Wm. Herndon being made chairman and W. I. Williams secretary. The chairman stated that the vote, which has been taken, only provided for a levy of 25 cents on each $100 and, as the county could not incur a debt, that it was impossible to buy the roads. He then suggested that the roads be leased for a number of years, after the expiration of which they were to become the property of the county. This was regarded by many as the most feasible plan, but, after considerable discussion, it was agreed to attempt to lease the roads until Dec. 1. as the question of issuing bonds to purchase them, will be settled at the November election. The members of the fiscal court were appointed a committee to confer with the stockholders of the road on the question of leasing. They meet next Saturday and it is believed that the deal can be consummated by paying something like the amount of Tollgate guarding is all the talk here now, and everybody would rather be taxed to buy the roads at what, they are worth than to meet the guards expenses on them. It seems to be a blg question

The people here find the telephone from here to Lancaster very convenlent. Last Thursday night Ben Naylor was taken violently ill, Dr. Klunalrd was telephoned for, and in about 30 minutes he arrived and had the boy easy. We hope to soon have connectlon with Stanford by telephone.

C. M. Adams was chosen trustee In this district Saturday, and it goes now that he will look after the Interest of the community in employing a teacher who will do their duty. The money that is due this district ought, to employ a good teacher for at least slx months and thereby save the patrons going to their pockets for a subscription term.

Beecher Adams and wife, of Hustonville, visited relatives here this week. Mr. Ed Mlnor and family have gone to Louisville to spend a few days. W. J.
